

wearing scarfs

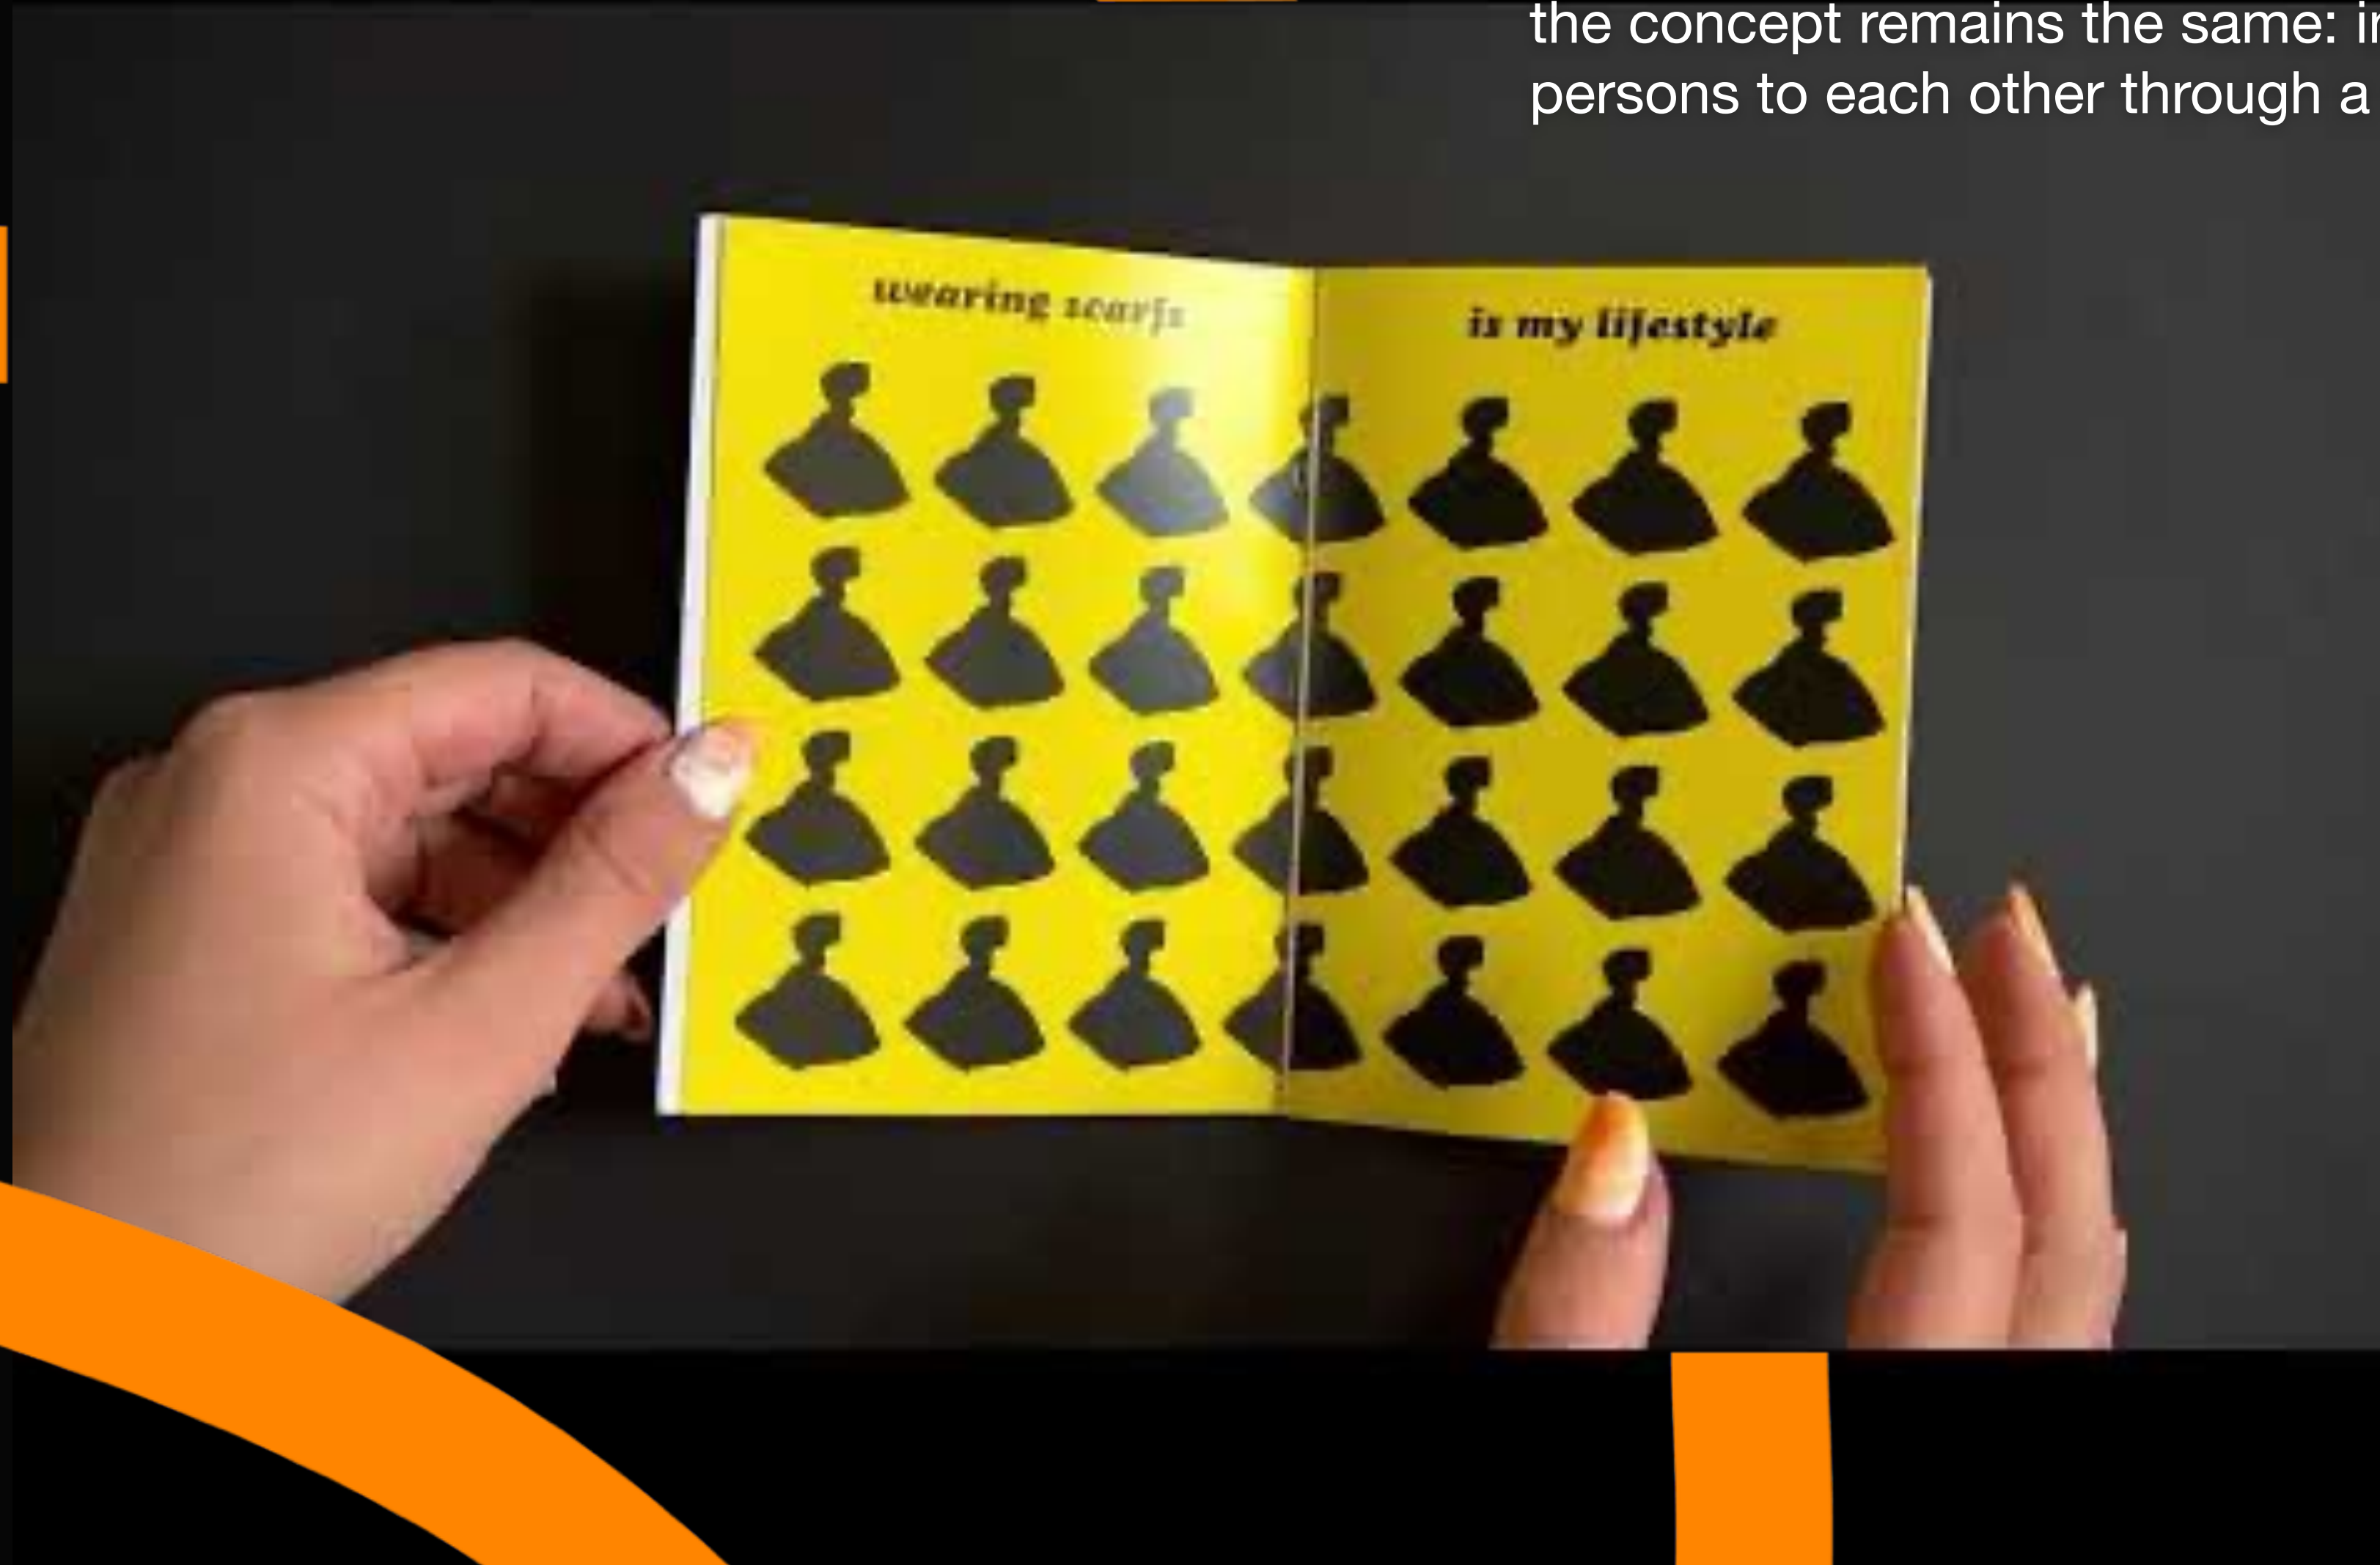

is my lifestyle

the previous animation is based on these zines.
the concept remains the same: introducing two persons to each other through a medium of choice.

started by interviewing the persons, asking basic questions people usually use when they get to know each other ("what's your favorite food/drink/animal/music genre?" etc.). Based on their answers, i created and designed statements, trying to let both persons wonder about each other after reading the zines, instead of getting a straight piece of information.

